EMERGING LEADERSHIP WORKSHOP SERIES

A unique part of the Business School Scholars program is the Emerging Leaders Workshop series. This is a series of personal development workshops designed to challenge you to examine your own leadership and career aspirations and set you on a pathway for success. The workshops include:

WORKSHOP 1

My leadership value proposition – Who am I and where am I going?

This workshop will challenge you to reflect on and consider your values, preferences and goals. What do I most want to accomplish in my life and career? What values are most important that underpin my choices? What type of characteristics do I want most in my job and career? What steps do I need to take now in order to make all this possible? You'll leave the workshop with a clear sense of your life and career values and an action plan to start your Monash journey.

Setting yourself up for success – Growth mindset and resilience

This workshop explores one of the most important drivers of personal and career success – growth mindset - the belief that abilities can be developed through dedication and hard work. Growth mindset helps you to not only cope with failure, but to learn from it and incorporate that learning into future actions. We'll also discuss other drivers of resilience and create your personal action plan for promoting health, performance and success.

Impacting and influencing others – The fundamentals of leadership communication

The most fundamental and basic skill in successful interaction with others is communication, for leaders can't exist without followers! We'll explore where your leadership influence comes from, and how at this early stage we can improve your skills to influence and impact others. This active workshop provides many opportunities to practice your skills in listening, responding and engaging in difficult conversations.

Driving successful teams – The power of collaboration

All of us participate and work in a wide variety of teams – sporting teams, project teams, student clubs, syndicate teams and work teams, to name a few. Your success at Monash and beyond will be influenced by your ability to work within and lead teams. This fun and experiential workshop will introduce you to a model for team effectiveness and the steps required for setting up a successful team.

Becoming a Peer Mentor – Gaining skills through the Monash Scholars Program

This workshop will not only reflect on and celebrate your learning and accomplishments, but look ahead and ask what you want to do differently the following year. In addition to setting some new goals, you'll discuss the opportunity for you to share your wisdom with the incoming class of Monash Scholars as a peer mentor/coach!

WORKSHOP 6

Negotiating a job offer – Claiming & Creating Value

Negotiating for your first job is often a stressful experience. This experiential workshop will give you the tools and strategies to successfully navigate and negotiate your job offer upon leaving Monash. All negotiations are a combination of "claiming" value (doing well for yourself), and "creating" value (finding common ground and mutual benefit). In your first job negotiation after university, it is critical to get the balance right, as this determines the starting point for the rest of your career.
